We are looking for someone who is an expert Blockchain Developer (either front end, back end and fullstack) to join our growing company 10 hires need. You are an excellent team player who is a natural at crafting elegant solutions to improve our website and product.

We thrive on trust and honesty. We believe in the positive and ethical impacts these cutting-edge technologies in a decentralized environment can make on the world. Your alignment and cultural fitment to these core values and beliefs are of considerable value to us.

Responsibilities

Develop and launch a new wallet extension for web browsers

Collaborate with Product, Design, and Engineering to define, prioritize, and build FinTech/Web3 features

Collaborate with backend or front end and smart contract developers

Build a reusable UI kit

Become a subject matter expert in payments and Web3

Implement a consistent, high-quality user experience across multiple blockchain-based applications, data-heavy analytics pages, and documentation portals.

Participate in all stages of product development from inception to launch Are you the right person for this role?

The ideal candidate for us has:

Experience with Ethereum Web3 frameworks and technologies,

Knowledge/experience working on Ethereum or Hyperledger

2+ years of experience with JavaScript development (would be great)

Solid knowledge of JavaScript and Typescript

Experience consuming external REST and GraphQL APIs from mobile

English language fluency

Strong expertise implementing designs in mobile applications Passion for writing clean and testable code Proficiency using Git version control.

Proficiency using the command line.

Pro-active communication and collaboration abilities with native-level proficiency in written and oral English